WORK ON OLD SPANISH TRAIL IN HANCOCK CO. PROGRESSING RAPIDLY

Commissioner Thames Has Force Rushing to Completion Work Was Delayed Awaiting Arrival of Machinery From Delta—To Work From Both Ends.

Work on the 27-mile stretch of the Old Spanish Trail in Hancock county is fast nearing completion, with the unfinished part reported in good condition since the preliminary grading and heavy oil treatment.

State Highway Commissioner J. F. Thames said the road would have been finished for July 4 as promised except for the delay in movement of the bulk of machinery from the Delta section, which was held up by high water there.

Work on 10 miles of the road under present contract has been finished, 10 miles have received the preliminary treatment for finishing toping and the seven miles remaining, leading into this city, have been given the special flat gravel treatment and first oil coating. To speed completion of the work Commissioner Thames said that machinery would be started in motion from the Uman avenue end of the road in the city, which is the extreme unfinished end in the city, with work starting from this end, going west to meet the work under way coming eastward. He said that portion of the road running in corporate territory of the city will also be taken care of by the highway. Land owners at Uman avenue and the Old Spanish Trail intersection, where the curve is simply a square corner, have given permission to cut the corner and round it into a wide curve, said Mr. Thames. The engineers, he said, will decide on this when they reach that point. A number of large oaks five miles west of here were removed after much protest when engineers had declared them to be a menace to public safety.

HANCOCK INSTALLS NEW COUNTY AGENT AT BOARD MEETING WEDNESDAY

R. H. Bryson Assumes New Duties of Office Wednesday Noon, Preceding Meeting of Business Men, Farmers And Others Who Assembled to Hear Addresses.

R. H. Bryson, former agricultural agent for the Gulf & Ship Island Railroad and more recently for the Mississippi Central Railroad Company, and serving counties as well in capacity as county agent, formally assumed the duties of his new office in Hancock county Wednesday noon, following a meeting of business men, farmers and others who had assembled with the Board of Supervisors for the occasion.

The meeting was presided over by Supervisor Charles Murphy in the absence of President Emilio Cue. J. Ed. Ruff, district agent for South Mississippi, was the first speaker. He outlined the work, its purpose and objects and pointed out how necessary it was in these times to develop and procure from the soil our very living.

He said it was possible to have a major cash crop, like Crystal Springs had its tomatoes and cabbages as a secondary cash crop, and that such a crop in Hancock county would be found in the production of strawberries. In closing he introduced Mr. Bryson who followed him in an address in which the fact was stressed that in addition to growing truck, etc., the essential was in finding an F. O. B. Market which he would strive to procure. In the absence of such market, in the absence of carload and other heavy shipments, then it would be necessary to deal with the commission merchant who was honest and dependable.

Mr. Bryson asked for co-operation of the people. He invited friendly criticism and said by such means he would be able to accomplish best results. By invitation other speakers before the assembly were Messrs. H. W. Osoinach, Leo W. Seal, Joseph O. Manfry, Chas. G. Moreau, George R. Ren.

Vernon Pace, county agent for Harrison, followed with the telling of his work in the adjoining county, how they were working out a five-year plan and asked for combined effort in shipping strawberries next season. Mr. Pace pledged co-operation and said he would assist in this county when necessary and asked for vice versa consideration.

Clark A. G. Farris closed the meet-

CLERMONT PAVILION OPENED

Opening Reception and Dance Saturday Night Delightful and Attended By Many

Success marked the formal opening and dance given Saturday night at the Clermont Harbor municipal pavilion at which were noted many ladies and gentlemen from this west section of the Coast and from New Orleans.

Weather was ideal. Gulf breezes blew in refreshingly and the guests danced until long past the mid-night hour. The event was interesting because it celebrated the accomplishment of a cherished plan of citizens of Clermont. This hope had been realized and there was every reason for a celebration. A second benefit dance, to help the building fund will be given Saturday, July 16, to which the public is invited.

John S. Pearce, engineer and supervisor of construction, deserves a lion's share of the credit for the construction and supervision of the pier. He gave his time and constant attention to the project until it became a reality and its success is as much his as the other gentlemen whose names appeared in these columns last week.

Clermont Harbor pier and pavilion is opened to the public without pay or fee. It is intended as purely a recreational center and as such the public is allowed to enjoy it. It is in every sense what the name implies, a municipal pier, for the public's pleasure.

St. Margaret's Dutch Supper A Success

With a vote of thanks to all the tireless efforts of the various committees of the organization the Dutch Supper was a success.

The Gaensepfeffer which is quite out of the ordinary here in Bay St. Louis was wonderfully prepared and together with the proper combination of vegetables and salad was very much enjoyed. The cakes delicious, and the drinks very refreshing.

Our Municipal Band was a big feature and added to the festive atmosphere. Thanks again to all those who made one little effort towards making the supper enjoyable. The rain marred somewhat, but the Brothers were kind enough to offer their gym. The president and her committee women thank the Brothers of St. Stanislaus very kindly.

Our poor thank them also.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Zerr, connected with the moving picture projection industry at New Orleans, are spending a few days visiting relatives in New Orleans.

Miss Eunice Toca of New Orleans is a popular visitor visiting at the home of her brother, Mr. M. Toca, in Second street, and his wife.

Mrs. W. L. Bourgeois has gone to Cincinnati, where she plans to remain until the 14th, inst. She accompanied back home Major Juddins, who had been quite ill, accompanied by his sister.

Mr. John A. Green, well-known and valued resident representative for the Louisville & Nashville R. R. Co., at Bay St. Louis is on the sick list this week, we are sorry to say.

Mr. Henry Cuneo and sister, Mrs. C. J. Tarut, have returned from a business trip of two weeks to New Orleans.

Mrs. Roland Webb and son, Horton Webb are out from New Orleans, spending a while visiting under the parental roof of Dr. and Mrs. L. C. Horton on North Beach Boulevard. Mr. Webb joins them for the week-end.

Many friends of the R. C. Engman family note with more than ordinary interest the recovery of Mrs. Engman from her recent serious indisposition. We are glad to note that she is up and out again.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Ritayik, prominent residents of New Orleans accompanied by his brother of St. Louis, have arrived for the season and opened their summer villa. Mr. Ritayik is a prominent attorney at New Orleans, while Mrs. Ritayik is perhaps best known for her activities in W. D. C. U. work. They are acquisitions to our summer colony.

Mrs. C. C. McDonald, accompanied by a young son, has returned from a visit to the home of her mother at Nashville, Tenn.

Mr. and Mrs. Bertell Perkins of New Orleans have joined the gay and welcome summer colony from New Orleans, occupying their summer home in Waveland Beach estates.

WILSON OUT FOR CONGRESS

Former Congressman Announces Candidacy—Has Served Efficiently and Faithfully

Hon. T. Webber Wilson, former congressman of this the Sixth Congressional district, is formally announced in this issue of The Sea Coast Echo a candidate for election as Representative in Congress, and is making the race on his record and willingness to again serve his people.

Former Congressman Wilson served three consecutive terms in Congress and failed to stand for re-election when he became a candidate for the Senate, failing in his election by a narrow margin, approximately seventy votes in each county.

He is still a young and active man, only 39 years of age, yet with the experience that few older men have had. He is a resident of Laurel in Jones county, where he practices law. He originally served as county attorney and later as district attorney, making an impress as to service and ability that is not forgotten. He served in Congress with the same signal ability.

His first speech in Congress was in opposition to giving millions of dollars to Europe, after our soldier boys had bled and died for that country as well as the cause for liberty. He voted against the bill to raise congressman's pay and voted against the proposition to cancel Europe's debt to America, and still contends that way. He believes in America for Americans and that every man is individually part of the nation and entitled to all consideration for his personal welfare as well.

Mr. Wilson wants it known that he stands with the Democratic nominees and squarely on the platform as well. "That was the platform adopted by the party in open convention," he says, "and party fealty demands that we must stand by its declarations and principles."

He has inaugurated an active campaign and on the Fourth of July filled more than one speaking date. He is vigorous, active and a man of tireless energy. He is a splendid speaker, possessed of a splendid delivery, equally as good a delivery. His speeches are engaging and the public listen to his addresses with rapt attention.

In time he plans to make the Gulf Coast section and will deliver such addresses as his campaign management and friends will see fit.

KING'S DAUGHTERS WILL CONDUCT DRIVE IN CITY FOR FUNDS SATURDAY

In His Name Members and Others Will Solicit Cash Funds Tomorrow For Bay St. Louis Hospital Building Fund And Maintenance—Public Asked To Help For Humanity's Sake.

Tomorrow—Saturday—July 9, the day set for the special drive for cash funds, will be launched by members of the Bay St. Louis Order of King's Daughters and Sons. The day will be marked by an active band of young people, each group properly delegated to certain sectors, to solicit such cash contributions as the public may see fit and able to give.

Mrs. E. J. Leonard, local president, announces that at a well-attended meeting solicitors were appointed, headed by captains, and that the work will be carried out systematically. Every home and business place will be called upon and every contribution given will be gratefully received. Our people are ever generous and this occasion will be by no means an exception. Former drives have proven successful.

The money thus realized will be appropriated to a fund from which it is planned to pay interests and possibly part of the mortgage hanging over the property in which the hospital is housed. Every effort is exerted in behalf to pay off this mortgage as early as possible, or at least part in order to reduce interest charges.

This is one of the noblest charities, helping suffering humanity. Alleviating the sick, aiding the distressed and bringing back not only to health those stricken but restoring happiness in homes where sickness and care means not only burden but privation.

If we help this cause, in his name, as King's Daughters work, surely, in addition to one's own satisfaction

FAMILY'S NARROW ESCAPE

Mrs. Eulalie Fayard and Family In Auto Wreck at Gulfport Saturday Afternoon.

Wrecked to that extent that a wrecker was necessary to tow it home, the family car of Mrs. Eulalie Fayard, residing in Main street, was damaged by a car driven by Mrs. Rankin, of Gulfport, Saturday afternoon in front of the King's Daughters Hospital of that city.

Miss Celine Fayard was driving the car in a long line of cars during the week-end congestion when the car ahead suddenly stopped, and without warning. This caused the Fayard car to be jammed by the car ahead and the car in rear as well. The result was that Miss Fayard, her niece Gloria Parilla, of Destrahan, La., and her mother were painfully injured. Miss Dorothy Fayard, another niece, was also severely shaken.

Mrs. Fayard sustained an injured hand. She was thrown forward from the back to the extent that part of the back of the front seat was broken. The steering wheel broke and part struck the niece Gloria on the chin and about the mouth, breaking a permanent tooth of the young Miss. The party was given first aid and taken home, badly shaken and nerves unstrung as a result, to say nothing of the injuries.

This is the second automobile accident Mrs. Fayard suffered. It will be remembered a year or two ago, while traveling to visit relatives at Lafayette, La., a car struck the auto in which she was traveling broadside and she was dangerously injured and for weeks was at a hospital at that place.

STOP! LOOK! LISTEN.

The big drive for funds to help feed our poor starts July 11-16. And please try to be as generous as you can. We need funds so we have planned a house to house canvass, give what you can—nothing is too small or too large!

Our demands are so large and various its impossible to get on without help. They are growing alarmingly fast so in our helplessness we are pealing to you dear public. Do not fail us now in our hour of such urgent need.

The poor are suffering and through their sufferings we are begging you to be generous. Please! ST. MARGARET'S DAUGHTERS.

A reported auto accident on the auto bridge to Dr. Pratt's car past week-end could not be substantiated. Mrs. (Dr.) Jas. A. Evans spent Tuesday in New Orleans, where she spent the day with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. John Osoinach are preparing to journey to California in the near future, in which state they will visit their daughter, Mrs. Cleo Anderson, at Sacramento, where they are located.

A Fellow Feeling Gent (at the back door)—I haven't averaged more than one meal a day this week, lady.

Mrs. Stout—Oh, are you trying to reduce, too?

Mrs. J. T. Hardee of Houston, Texas, and former resident of Nugent, seven miles north of Gulfport, was fatally injured Sunday when the automobile in which she and her husband were enroute to the Mississippi Coast overturned after skidding in loose gravel, eight miles west of Bay St. Louis.

Mrs. Hardee was seriously injured and taken directly to Gulfport at the King's Daughters Hospital, where, after an examination it was found that she had broken several ribs and that her lungs had been punctured as a result of the broken bones.

Other members of the party were more or less shaken and received lacerations but none seriously hurt.

Mrs. Hardee formerly resided in Mississippi and had moved out to Texas some years ago. It was on a trip back home, to see former friends and visited former family scenes, that she met her death.

Fourth of July Toll Heavy.

In addition to the foregoing the shadow of tragedy spread over Mississippi last week-end as the holiday death toll mounted. Seemingly every section of the State contributed to the fatality list made up of a wide range of causes. The dead:

Malcolm P. Foy, 62-year-old Newton county attorney, who was fatally gored at his Newton home by an enraged bull.

Mrs. J. T. Hardee, Houston, Texas, fatally hurt in a coast auto accident.

Miss Bertha Schweirjohn, 31, Pica-yune telegraph operator, and her sister, Miss Josephine Schweirjohn, 21, a teacher, fatally injured Sunday near Lumberton when a Southern railway train struck the car in which they were riding.

Hal E. Williams, 42, Jackson salesman, drowned at Biloxi.

Horace L. Finch, 20, drowned near McClain, Miss.

J. A. McIntosh, 72, Pike county, killed by lightning at Jayess.

Miss Leslie Mullins, 23, McCall Creek, victim of overturned automobile.

Clarence Everett, Yazoo City negro truck driver, drowned.

Hoye Walker, 30, Tupelo, fatally wounded by mysterious blow at Meridian.

Sheriff T. Ed. Kellar Weds Miss Thelma T. Roberts At The Pass

Announcement of the recent marriage of Sheriff T. Ed. Kellar of this city to Miss Thelma J. Roberts, also of Bay St. Louis, is received with interest and the popular sheriff and tax-collector of Hancock county has been the recipient of many messages of congratulations and best wishes from all sides.

The couple were married at Pass Christian, Supervisor E. J. Adam, Sr., performing the ceremony.

The bride is well known as a young woman of accomplishment and member of a prominently-known family of this county, while Mr. Kellar is one of the best known and universally popular citizens of the county, known all over this section of the State. Mr. Kellar still a young man, was a widower for quite a number of years.

The Echo joins the many friends and acquaintances of the couple in congratulations.

Friends Give Shower Mr. and Mrs. Kellar were honorees of a miscellaneous shower given Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Carrio, residing in Washington street, to which a large number of friends attended. There were many handsome and useful gifts, each carrying wishes for happiness. Mr. and Mrs. Kellar have been the recipients of a number of social attentions since their marriage.

Rivals In Language Old Lady (in New York): "Isn't it wonderful how a single policeman can dam the flow of traffic?" Boy: "Yes, grannie, but you should hear the bus drivers!"

A Sorry Lot Judge—When you married him you promised to share his lot, didn't you?

Wife—Yes, but I didn't know then that it was just a lot of trouble.

FOURTH OF JULY WEEK-END CROWD.

NUMBER of motorists and other visitors to the Mississippi Gulf Coast last week-end exceeded all former records and well testifies to the popularity of this section.

Both Bay St. Louis and the Waveland-Clermont sectors smashed all precedents for crowds. This west section of the Coast in particular is tremendously popular with the New Orleans contingent. These folks, who also hail from other Louisiana points, anticipate the visit here with a more than ordinary ardor and leave with the hope of an early return. Such is the lure of the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

It is safe to count the number of autos to and fro last week-end in figures by the thousands. The cars began pouring in last Friday afternoon and during Saturday afternoon and evening the number was lost in groups—an almost endless caravan of Fourth of July week-enders!

How many crossed the Bay St. Louis bi-county free auto bridge none would hazard a guess tremendous as must have been the aggregate. Out-riders may well imagine the influx when it is stated local hotels and other places of lodgment turned people away Saturday night. Local homes that had opened their doors to roomers were soon filled. It was also noted that visitors that had gone further eastward along the coast found a similar condition existing and retrieved their route to Bay St. Louis in quest of accommodation.

It was a great and glorious Fourth as far as the Coast goes. This section was the attraction for many. Our sunshine, seabreezes, salt water bathing, auto highways and byways are irresistible and it is no wonder visitors who come here once are wont to return.

The Coast is well host to the public. They enjoy the hospitality of our people and leave again advertising this favorite section.

ROOSEVELT'S NOMINATION

GOV. ROOSEVELT'S nomination to the presidency by the Democratic party in Chicago last week has struck a popular key and it is evident that no other nomination could have proven of better selection.

Hearst's newspapers, with a combined circulation of twenty-five million copies will support Roosevelt, as indicated by a signed statement from Wm. Randolph Hearst, owner, to Arthur Brisbane, world's best known correspondent.

Roosevelt's ability and qualifications form a combination that fit in more instances than one, conciliating any partisan differences that may exist or arise and in the last analysis a selection that is popularly satisfactory with the great mass of voters, Democrats and others regardless of party affiliations.

The people cried for bread and are still pleading with outstretched hands, vainly asking. All that the Hoover administration has given is promises and then some more. None of these promises have materialized and in turn no relief has been forthcoming.

Someone said that a hungry man is a dangerous man. And so he is. Revolutions are born of empty stomachs. People of our country are passing through the most acute crisis in history. They are seeking relief. Their hope is the Democratic party and in the nomination of Governor Roosevelt they have found, indeed, a standard bearer.

PUBLIC PIER FOR BAY ST. LOUIS.

THE necessity of a public pier in Bay St. Louis is felt more as time goes on and the demand becomes more insistent. Last week-end thousands of people flocked to Bay St. Louis and the absence of a public recreational pier was felt in that sense that makes such an improvement all the more important. The Echo understands the city is willing to build such a pier and pavilion, one that would be worth while and commensurate with the great necessity that suggests such construction, but the lack of funds is all that stands in the way of accomplishing the desired improvement.

Attention has been called to this need time and again and it is not impossible that sooner or later Bay St. Louis may boast of a fine pier, extending its length far out into deep water and with such pleasure, comfort and accommodation as the demand now calls for. The city does not approve of adding to the tax burden of the city and that seems about the only way to defray the cost. A bond issue would easily take care of the project, but our tax rate now is augmented by the fact we are discharging the obligation incurred by past bond issues. However, there may be other means and the hope is expressed that such may be discovered.

A "GROWING CATASTROPHE."

THE unemployment situation according to William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor, is growing worse and the rate of increase this year "has been considerably more than twice that of 1930 and 1931."

The labor leader complains that the public as a whole "seems entirely unconscious of the growing catastrophe that is upon us." He insists that unless working hours are shortened, to create jobs, millions will be permanently without incomes and dependent upon charity. This will mean a huge loss of buying power and will help to prolong the present depression.

The statement of Mr. Green, as to the increasing unemployment, is somewhat shocking in view of the general impression that recent governmental action has improved conditions.

PASSING AWAY OF TALENTED WOMAN.

THE inevitable last Thursday morning claimed all that was mortal of a remarkable woman, Mrs. Bessie Smallwood Shields, beloved wife of Bernard C. Shields and mother of two sons, Bernard Jr., and Santos, and three accomplished daughters, Mrs. Bessie Fourton of New York, Mrs. Sarah Prevost, of France and Miss Sidney Shields, distinguished Broadway actress. Mrs. Shields, a woman of histrionic ability, had graced the boards and favored the public with her talent and had appeared time again on the stage, but giving her talent always her husband, Bernard C. Shields, equally capable.

Bay St. Louis has time again benefitted by the generosity of this talented and now lamented woman. For it is well remembered not many years since, when her health was such as to permit, how she gave her time and effort repeatedly for local charity and church benefit, regardless of creed. The Shields appeared many a time for local cause, even as far back as in the time of good Father LeDuc, pastor of the church of Our Lady of the Gulf. Then the Episcopal church at Waveland of former years was similarly favored.

Mrs. Shields was a sister of the late Mrs. M. R. Field, who was known to the world of letters as "Catherine Cole," and to newspaper readers as Dorothy Dix is today and equally as popular.

And with many things of the world to engross her time and attention, Mrs. Shields was further remarkable in the sense that she was the true typical wife and mother of the home. She was blessed with a large family and in turn they were given that grace that only comes from the heart and solicitation of the ideal mother. This alone is tribute. In fact, no greater tribute may be paid a woman than to say she was the perfect mother.

Mrs. Shields in her earlier years of life had another interesting career. She knew well the members of the theatrical profession, was press agent and general representative for the well-known Minnie Madder Fiske of that time. Her connections with the theatrical world were varied and always marked with success. Mrs. Shields was of that type that whatever the pursuit or mission might be she loved her work. This in a large measure was a secret of her success.

In her death we chronicle the passing away of a woman of accomplishment and achievement.

HANCOCK COUNTY AGENT.

HANCOCK'S new county agent, R. H. Bryson, was inducted into office this week by the Board of Supervisors when a number of business men of the community and others assembled in the supervisors' room and heard an outline of work and possibilities by J. Ed. Ruff, district agent for South Mississippi, followed by County Agent R. H. Bryson, who spoke in explanation of his plans and purposes.

Since there are no industries in Hancock county, with timber and its kindred products no more, it was pointed out that nothing remains for our people but back to the soil.

People the past number of recent years have migrated to the cities and thousands of farms abandoned. But the order of things is reversed. Cities are overcrowded, with no employment by which the people may procure the wherewith to feed themselves and the exodus from the country reverses to an influx.

The people are coming back to the farms. It is their hope. It is the means of livelihood. In Hancock, with timber resources gone, there seems nothing else to do but to develop the soil. The Board of Supervisors in their wisdom foresees this and have elected one who will not only outline such program as may be deemed best, how best to grow and what to put out but one who is best acquainted with how to better market.

In Mr. Bryson the board is satisfied that in the selection the embodiment of such qualifications have been located and that the people of Hancock in time will both profit and prosper.

The Echo is of the opinion that the money paid such a county agent could not be better invested. The return from this investment for our people will be manifold. The Board felt it owes its people such means whereby they may benefit and prosper and their action is not only timely but to be commended.

Mr. Bryson has a statement to the people of the county, published elsewhere in this issue of The Echo, which it might be well to read and to give such co-operation as he asks.

STAMP CHANGES

CHANGING the postage rates means that a lot of two-cent stamps now on hand will not be in demand as much as previously. The Post Office Department has issued instructions looking towards the utilization of these stamps as early as possible.

One billion new one-cent stamps will be issued in the near future by the Department so that by using one of these with a two-cent stamp the necessary three-cent postage for letters will be available. In addition, all post masters have been urged to use two-cent stamps on parcel post packages rather than the larger denominations to utilize the large stock of two-cent stamps on hand.

Four billion three-cent stamps have just been printed by the Government and will be distributed to the public for use in connection with the new rates.

TRAGEDY.

SAMUEL INSULL was a big utility magnate for many years. He controlled corporations valued into the hundreds of millions of dollars. Yet his organization broke down during the recent depression, went into the hands of receivers, and left the old man high and dry. As he quit he uttered some pathetic words, as follows:

"I've gone from the bottom to the top and now to the bottom again. I only hope I will be able to keep a roof over my head and care for my wife. I have ceased to be newspaper copy. And I am not of public life. So I ought to be entitled to privacy. Here I go, after 50 years of work, a man without a job."

VIEW OF OUR NEWS

By Chicagoan

A Review of the News of Last Week's Echo.

CHICAGO, ILL., July 5.—The Echo published just before the Fourth of July told of folks from far and near planning to attend the celebration at Henderson Point, now an event of the past. Most of these people find little rancor in their hearts for King George, and not so many of them think over much about the Revolutionary Fathers. But they feel the need of that recreation which comes from contact with their fellow beings, thus registering their dependence in a measure, upon others.

Of course, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Pitcher aren't entirely independent, even now. But for a time, they left a few of their cares and responsibilities behind them in Bay St. Louis while enjoying their trip in the East. And while we are dependent in many ways, the person lucky enough to get away on such a vacation is independent of a few things for a time at least.

Encouraging indeed is the article in last week's Echo which brings to me the picture of a Bay St. Louis with streets kept spic and span by Street Commissioner Tacconi, and with improvements going forward under the direction of Mayor Traub and the other able members of the city administration. The appearance made by a town tells of its culture. Art galleries are being closed in big cities, opera companies are disbanding, but even though those things be not available, a love of the beautiful can be expressed in the appearance of our surroundings. The Echo may well speak with pride of the progress of its city. There the culture of a proud nation is being preserved.

Not only is Miss Clare Fern of New Orleans dependent upon her hostess for the enjoyable time she is having in Bay St. Louis, but Miss Joy Chalona is also somewhat dependent upon her charming guest, for the pleasure she derives from her own hospitality. She plans entertainment and social affairs, such as the marshmallow roast of Saturday night, thinking al-ways of the likes and dislikes of the visitor, and is happiest when she has pleased her most. But isn't dependent of such a guest and such a hostess upon each other most exquisite?

Can the imagination of a human conjure anything more dependent than those soft little bundles of new life, one of which has been reposing since June 27th, at the Raymond Lader home in Waveland? The very dependency of a babe is what makes it so lovable. Not only its parents, but all others, feel an urge to shield the little one from the harsh things of life. 'Tis with what almost amounts to regret that we watch a child grow until it assumes a measure of independence. It is then that its struggle with relentless realities begins.

Members of Parent Teachers' Association are convinced that if our nation is to retain the dependence for which our forefathers fought, they must be alert to combat every threatening force. So, co-operating with County Health Officer Dr. Shipp, they are turning their attention to safeguarding the health of children and the public generally. They keep in step with current trends, always ready to do the things needed to be done. They know that by building the strength of the city and county units of their organization, the national body will go forward toward the goal it has set.

In times like these, merchants, farmers and workers who make up a community like that of which Bay St. Louis is the center, realize keenly their dependence upon each other. As a result there is a better understanding of each other, and their business relations take on more of the characteristics of the neighborly barter and exchange once prevalent on the frontiers. But the people of Bay St. Louis have one advantage never made available to the old frontiers. Your community has the Echo, as means of keeping in constant communication with each other. When a merchant is able to make a good purchase now, he does not have to wait until the news of it gets abroad by word of mouth. He promptly advertises in the home paper, as his customers expect him to do. Should he forget to do so, the trade may conclude he has nothing to sell.

In campaign years, we are certain to hear a lot about independence. Not alone from the articles in the Echo which report the political developments of the nation, but from the radio and many other places.

To Vote On Prohibition

The voters of the United States will have their first opportunity to express themselves on the prohibition question next November, after 12 years of agitation for this right, and the result will be quite interesting. The vote will come as the result of the Democratic National Convention inserting a plank in their platform asking for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Of course, there will be millions of Republicans vote the Republican ticket, regardless of the platform, and the same is true of the Democratic party, but we believe that there will be enough independent votes to settle the issue one way or the other.—Bogalusa Enterprise.

But then, I suppose the statements of today are doing plenty to which the politicians of 2032 will point with pride when they hold their national conventions.

WIVES OF DEMOCRATIC NOMINEES WOMEN OF DIFFERENT SOCIAL ASPECTS

Mrs. Roosevelt, One Of '400' —No Stranger to Life In White House

Should the tall, blue-eyed wife of the Democratic nominee for president be the next lady of the White House she will not go to Washington a stranger, for she knows the city well and loves it, and has been a figure in official life there before.

Franklin D. Roosevelt and his wife lived eight years in Washington when the governor was the assistant secretary of the navy. But before that Mrs. Roosevelt had passed much time in Washington, and in the White House herself. For Theodore Roosevelt, the former president was her uncle, and she made frequent visits to her cousins when their father was president.

Her father was Elliott, Theodore Roosevelt's younger brother, and her mother was Anna Livingston Hall, a descendant of Chancellor Livingston, so she comes from distinguished families on both sides. Her husband is also her distant cousin.

Traveled Abroad

Mrs. Anna Eleanor Roosevelt is a woman of innate charm, of direct approach, with a free energetic manner, and with various diverse interests. And though she is a member of the true aristocracy, society as such has never had any appeal for her.

Her parents died when she was a child and she lived with her grandmother, Mrs. Valentine G. Hall, near Poughkeepsie, N. Y. She was taught by private tutors or a governess until 15.

Then she spent three years in a private school near London. She studied the usual languages, literature and history, and in the summer with the head of the school, she toured the continent, seeking out the treasures of Italy and France or the Northern European countries as fancy might direct. Young Anna Eleanor met artists, statesmen and authors, broadening her point of view and acquiring true culture.

But this was no preparation for entering New York's Four Hundred, as society in that city was then called, and into which she was plunged on her return to this country.

Helps Governor

She had few friends remaining after her long absence and as she looked out on the crowded, gay scene that attended her debut, she admits now that she felt utterly miserable.

The Four Hundred has faded into the background now and Mrs. Roosevelt's days are filled with varied and exacting tasks that keep both herself and a staff of secretaries grinding as many working hours out of each day as is humanly possible. She has her personal philanthropic work to look after, a school teaching job that necessitates a 150-mile trip twice weekly and is a partner in many of the governor's activities.

Politically, her tasks are manifold. During the previous presidential campaign, she took charge of the national Democratic women's committee. Each summer, owing to the governor's desire to be intimately acquainted with all industries under state control she travels constantly with him from county to county, never staying more than three days in one place and returning home only for brief week-ends.

Many Activities

Then, of course, there are the many social functions at which she must act as hostess. This year, with her husband waging a strenuous campaign for the presidency, her work will increase until, as she declares, "I often wish the day had elastic hours that could be stretched to fit our convenience."

Mrs. Roosevelt's philanthropic work consists largely of an idea she has to bring industry closer to the farmers. To this end the Val-Kill shops were organized in Hyde Park in 1925, enabling farm boys to learn the art of repairing and copying antique furniture. By 1929, the boys had become so adept they were making expenses, but the depression turned it into a losing venture.

"That," explains Mrs. Roosevelt, "is nothing against the value of the idea. We never expected to make expenses. We're trying to teach people to help themselves with varied accomplishments."

Mrs. Roosevelt insists she will not abandon her teaching activities even if her husband is elected president.

Half Owner of School

She makes the trip now from Albany to New York and she expects to make it from Washington if the voters so decree. Mrs. Roosevelt is principal in the Todhunter school for girls in which she owns a half interest. She has there an opportunity to work out her pet ideas of training young women to properly recognize and assume responsibilities placed upon their shoulders as citizens.

Mrs. Roosevelt's daily schedule is so crowded she has to parcel out her time in half hours and the habit of business is so firmly implanted she finds she cannot engage even in a casual conversation unless her hands are occupied with knitting or darning or embroidery.

But her work seems to have taken no toll. As a mother of five children and a grandmother, she appears ever young and vital with the bubbling energy of a woman just starting out in life.

Mrs. Garner Real Secretary to Husband; Cares Little for Society.

The wife of our country's vice-president needs a closefist of clothes and no cooking stove at all. She eats her victuals, with frills, at the endless formal dinner parties to which the vice-president as the "United States" is everlastingly invited.

Now Ettie Garner, spouse of Candidate Cactus Jack, owns but one evening gown, and she broils a mean steak.

So the question is, if she becomes the nation's second lady, will she conform to vice-presidential elaborateness, or will vice-presidential swank conform to Texas simplicity.

Many think Mrs. Garner will remain Mrs. Garner, frank, friendly and smart enough to realize that the silliest thing she could do would be to change into the Washington grande dame.

Gets Up Early

When her husband became speaker of the House last fall, she was made the target for all manner of invitations and she accepted three, one to the White House (and that was why she bought that black lace dress); one to the Congressional Club party in her husband's honor (and she wore the same dress); one to a Texas luncheon.

Many Washington wives pose as "my husband's secretary," Mrs. Garner is her husband's secretary. When she said that she got down to the capitol at the unearthly hour of 7 in the morning, some thought it was pleasant political propaganda. Couldn't check up, personally, for that's the dawn for them. But industrious reporters did check up. They found Mrs. Garner was wrong. She didn't get there at 7. Usually it was a quarter to 7.

Stays On The Job

She hammers away at a typewriter all morning. She really does answer most of the letters; make most of the appointments; smooth out many of the wrinkles of a speaker's day. At noon she boils the coffee in the percolator, dishes up some food that always smells awful good and serves luncheon to Garner.

As speaker of the House he has an elegant dining room all his own, called the "speaker's dining room," but he hardly ever uses it.

In the afternoon Mrs. Garner's back at work; stays there, too, until late in the afternoon. She meets the folks that come with woe; she hands out gallery courtesy cards to the folks who come in for a special seat; she keeps the wheels running smoothly.

Once in a while she dashes upstairs to hear her husband speak. But she doesn't walk in, with pomp, to the special box that is hers. She stands in the back of the public gallery.

A Real Housekeeper

At night she jumps into a 20-cent taxi (in the morning she walks the mile and a half to work) and drives back to her hotel.

When they first came to Washington she kept house in a few rooms in a small hotel. Recently, with so much more to do, she has moved to a larger hotel and they take their meals in the dining room; usually in the coffee shop, at 6:30, which is virtual social heresy in Washington, land of the 8:30 dinner.

As a comment on her housekeeping, you women will understand what a compliment it is to her to report that in 25 years she had only three different cooks.

But to return to her daily routine. Back at the hotel there is an early dinner, then a visit down in the lobby with any friends who happen to stroll by. Back in her apartment by 9.

Disconnects Phone

The hotel has orders to disconnect the telephone after 9:30 at night. Once in a while, Jack Garner, forgetting, rushes to the ringing instrument, shouts "hello" into the receiver. Then there'll be something of a commotion and presently over the wire will come Mrs. Garner's convincing, "nobody in the Garner Apartment."

She's a good secretary. In appearance, Mrs. Garner is extremely easy to look at; rather short, slim, nice wavy black hair, with just a tiny touch of grey, and dimples that you can't help noticing.

The Garners have one son, married and living down in Texas, and one grandchild, young Genevieve. Mrs. Garner has pictures of the family in her office; enjoys talking about the granddaughter, sends her a dollar every month when the high school report card is good. It usually is.

May Revise Schedule

If she becomes the wife of the vice-president there will be no Gann crisis.

For you see, as wife of the speaker, she has maintained she didn't care where she sat.

And so, as the wife of the vice-president, she couldn't turn around to criticize the wife of the speaker, for she was that.

But, as was said before, if she does become the second lady, many have an idea that the late Thomas Marshall's definition of the vice-

BARRYMORE AND TWELVETREES HEAD 'STATE'S ATTORNEY'

Cast of Fast-Moving Story at A. & G. Sunday and Monday

John Barrymore and Helen Twelvetrees head the cast for "State's Attorney," the RKO Radio picture coming to the A. & G. Theater, Sunday and Monday.

Telling a fast-moving story which combines colorful romance with tense drama of the criminal court-rooms, "State's Attorney" presents Barrymore as a debonair prosecutor who wins the ladies and convicts the criminals with his dash and fire. Miss Twelvetrees plays a girl who teaches him what love really means. Others in the cast are William (Stage) Boyd, Jill Esmond, Mary Duncan, Raoul Roulien, Oscar Apfel, Nat Pendleton, Ralph Ince, C. Henry Gordon, Frederick Burton and Leon Waycoff.

Swift Story Action

Starting with a police raid on a fashionable club, the action swings swiftly into a night court where Barrymore and Miss Twelvetrees have their dramatic meeting. Murder trials, a battle in a prize ring, a secret wedding where the wrong girl gets the gold band, and a street shooting affray, all play their part in leading up to the dramatic climax in which Barrymore bares his soul in an impassioned plea before a jury. George Archambaud, who made the sensational aviation success, "The Lost Squadron," directed the picture. The story was written by Louis Stevens, and Gene Fowler is the author of the screen play.

How It Worked Out

Handley had not come out very well in the marriage lottery. One day at his club he was bemoaning his troubles to a more fortunate member. "Yes," he said, "before I married everyone told me that marriage was a gamble." The other yawned. He was rather bored. "And how did you find it?" he asked. "Why," said Handley bitterly, "a fellow hasn't got a chance."

Present Supervisor of Jones County, Miss., candidate for State Highway Commissioner of the Southern District of Mississippi.

In announcing my candidacy for the office of State Highway commissioner I desire to tell you who I am, what I have done, and what I expect to do when you elect me as your highway commissioner.

I was born in Jasper County, Mississippi, forty-two years ago. I spent my early boyhood in Biloxi, Mississippi, where my father was collector of Customs, in the administration of President Grover Cleveland. I have lived in Laurel, Mississippi, since 1900. Attended A. & M. College at Starkville, Miss. I am married and have a family.

I am a veteran of the World War—having organized a company of infantry in Laurel soon after the outbreak of the war. I was promoted to the rank of Major, and my home company served with me in France.

I have taken an active part in every civic movement for the past twenty years for the betterment of conditions in my city, county and State.

I am now President of IODINE PRODUCTS CO., Inc., of Laurel, Miss., manufacturers of I-O-DINE TOOTH PASTE which is sold around the world.

I am now President of the Mississippi Association of Boards of Supervisors.

If I am elected as your Highway Commissioner, I promise the following:

The Highway Department will be re-organized and operated on efficient economic business-like principles.

A square deal will be given to everybody, and in letting contracts Mississippi contractors and Mississippi labor will get the preference. I favor connecting the cities and towns with the highways, not disconnecting them.

The entire Southern District will be impartially served.

I will spend a great part of my time in the Southern District inspecting the roads and bridges, consulting the people, and especially in conferring with the Boards of Supervisors and town and city officials.

I will not favor any movement to take gasoline tax money away from the counties, or, to further curtail the working of County roads.

I will appreciate your vote and influence, and if I am elected you will appreciate the service I will render, and you will never regret having voted for me for Highway Commissioner.

Yours for service,
ARCHIE F. McCORMICK.

TOO LATE

You might have been a monarch great,
With scepter, throne and crown,
But you were simply born too late,
For kings and queens are out of date,
With wisdom, therefore, bow to fate
And smile instead of frown.

You might have been a noble knight,
Or stately lady fair,
When chivalry was at its height
And jousts and tournaments wave delight,
But times like these have taken flight,
You came too late to share.

You might have been a master proud,
Or mistress else of slaves,
If only you had been allowed
The boon of birth before the shroud
Enveloped Dixie like a cloud,
These, too, are in their graves.

You might have stood, a soul sublime,
When merit was the badge of men.
You chanced upon an evil time,
An age of counterfeit and crime,
Forgotten now the virtues prime
That flourished in their splendor then.

You might have been a millionaire
With heaps of gold to give.
The field was clear, the chance was fair
For those who had the will to dare.
Now Trusts and Chains are everywhere
And shall these lawless live?

You might have stamped upon your age
The deathless image of a man.
You might have triumphed as a sage,
The noblest penned on any page.
You came too late, today they guage
Achievement by a charted plan.

There was a time when worth alone
Was measure of the good and great.
But now from king upon his throne
To peasant cottage, all are known
By standardizing labels shown—
God save the mark, you came too late.

WHAT'S DOING IN MISSISSIPPI IN WAY OF CONSTRUCTION

Four Cities Are Building Postoffices of No Small Pretensions—Jackson Leads.

JACKSON:

The Treasury Department called for bids, June 23rd, on the construction of Jackson's million dollar federal building. These are to be opened August 4th and within fifteen to thirty days after the awarding of the contract, work will be begun on the demolishing of the present federal structure and Hinds County's old courthouse and jail. Construction of the new edifice will begin in the fall. Temporary postoffice headquarters will be in R. E. Hines garage and contract has been let to Currie and Corley, of Jackson, for remodeling same, which will consist of a new flooring, plastering, painting, electric wiring, and erection of various partitions. About 9,500 sq. feet of space is available in the temporary quarters and the cost of remodeling will be about $5,600, according to Hull and Mulvaney, architects for the new edifice.

MERIDIAN:

Excavation of the new $555,000 postoffice was begun on Monday, June 6th, with 150 laborers employed. The excavation will be completed in about ten days. A. A. Fuller, vice-president of Ralph Solitt & Sons Const. Co., of South Bend, Ind., is in Meridian to obtain information relative to the making of sub-contracts for work on the building. Mr. Fuller states that it will be the policy of the construction company to award contracts and purchase materials locally and also to use local labor. The contract calls for the completion of the structure within 440 calendar days.

COLUMBIA:

Lester E. Wills, assistant United States district attorney, of Meridian, has completed the deal for the site of the new postoffice in Columbia. Plans for the structure have been completed and are in the hands of the contracting engineers. The property bought is being cleared and prepared for construction to begin as soon as the contract has been let.

WINONA:

Mr. C. G. Chalfant, construction engineer of the Rosen & Fishel Const. Co., of Chicago, has arrived in Winona and actual work on the building of the $75,000 postoffice has gotten under way. The work of excavation will be completed in a few weeks. Local labor will be used throughout the project wherever possible.

COMMENT ON SPORTS BY SHERIDAN

Sarazen's Triumphs Jacobs Suspended Nurmi Gives Notice Mrs. Moody Wins New Mile Record The Baseball Races

With an amazing card of 66 on his last eighteen holes, Gene Sarazen, recent winner of the British Open Golf Championship, overcame a 5-stroke handicap to win the U. S. Open title. His winning total was 286, a figure equalled only once in championship history and his 66 on the last day broke the course record.

The title was almost within grasp of Phil Perkins, former British amateur champion, who started the fourth one stroke ahead of Sarazen and turned in a brilliant 70 to give himself a score of 289 for the 72 holes. Many observers thought that he had the cup won but Bobby Cruickshank, who nine years ago played off the title with Bobby Jones, crashed into the picture with a 33 on his first nine, and then came that Sarazen had reached the turn in 32, putting him ahead of both of the other players by two strokes.

Sarazen was playing a great game and continued to the end, becoming the only other man, besides Bobby Jones, to win the two open golf titles in the same year. Already, the golfing world hails him as the new king to succeed the great Jones as the recognized leader of the pack.

Joe Jacob's shrill cry of "robbery" following the weird decision giving Sharkey the heavyweight title which really belonged to Schmeling, was followed by his admission that "I lost my head." Joe said he was excited and disappointed at the outcome of the fight and what he said was "in anger." Moreover, Joe now insists that "Gunboat" Smith, the referee, "is honest." Nevertheless, the New York State Athletic Commission popped an indefinite suspension on Joseph for his hottheadedness.

Paavo Nurmi made his debut as a marathon runner last week and covered the 26-mile 385 yard-course in 2:22.4, which is ten minutes under the unofficial world record held by Hannes Kolehmainen, set in the Olympic games at Antwerp in 1920. Of course, there is no official record because marathon courses vary in difficulty but Nurmi's victory justifies Finland's expectation that he will be hard to beat at Los Angeles this summer, granting that he is re-instated as an amateur.

They might as well give Mrs. Helen Wills Moody the permanent championship at Wimbledon, and call it even. The Californian won the crown last week for the fifth time, defeating Miss Helen Jacobs, 6-3, 6-1. In 1927, as Helen Wills, she topped the women players of the world and repeated for the next three years. Last year she stayed at home and the German star, Cilly Aussem, beat the rest.

Miss Jacobs was Wimbledon finalist three years ago. All she could do then was to win one game. This year she took four. Last summer these two outstanding American women met at Seabright, N. J., where the verdict was for the world's champion.

Equipose, Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's four year old, set a new record at Arlington Park last week for one mile, making the distance in 1:34 2-5, clipping three-fifths of a second from the record of Jack High. Equipose ran a steady race, finishing equipose.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, after a remarkable reversal of early season form, reached the top of the National League pack last week, and if the team continues to get the good pitching that it has been enjoying the other managers have something else to worry about. The Cubs and Boston continue to play good ball, with the Phillies insisting that they are in the race.

The National race continues to be an under-the-blanket affair, although the slump of the Cincinnati Reds has put them a bit behind the pack. The rest of the aggregations are within striking distance of the Pirates and the battle for the flag goes on in as merry a fashion as the most ardent fan could desire.

In the American League the Yankees continue to threaten to make a get-away. Detroit and Philadelphia are the runners-up, but Washington Cleveland and St. Louis show signs of stiffening opposition. Outside of the commanding lead that New York has managed to acquire and the lowly estate of the White Sox and the Red Sox, the junior circuit is staging a pretty show.

HON. T. WEBBER WILSON ANNOUNCES FOR CONGRESS

To the Democratic voters of the Sixth Congressional District of Mississippi:

I desire to announce to you my candidacy for the office of Congressman. If there ever was a time in the history of our country when we should choose men best fitted and qualified to serve us in responsible governmental positions, that time is here. If you think that I possess qualifications of head and heart which fit a man for this high, legislative position, I shall be grateful to you for your vote for this office.

If elected, I shall stand for re-trenchment and rigid economy. My record made in Congress will support this statement. I worked while in Congress to this end. I even voted against raising the Congressman's salary from $7,500.00 to $10,000 per year. I do not come to you with vain promises, but with a record that supports my pledge for economy in government.

We cannot relieve conditions in the country by placing more taxes upon the already over-burdened American people. The people have now more taxes than they can bear. If elected, I shall stand for reduction of governmental expenditures, for abolition of unnecessary bureaus and commissions, which are today sapping the very life's blood out of the American people. We should cut governmental expenditures all the way down the line beginning at the President of the United States. I shall be willing as a member of Congress to cut my own salary to show my sincerity in the effort to reduce governmental expenditures.

One of the first speeches I made after I went to Congress I made against a resolution known as the "fish resolution," which had for its purpose the taking out of the taxpayer's pockets millions of dollars to give to the starving people of Europe. I said then, more than eight years ago, and I repeat with emphasis in their hour that, if we have anything to give away, we ought to give it to the people for whom this government was created. We have all over this land of ours naked and hungry people. There are citizens born under our flag, under our form of government, who are crying for bread. If elected to Congress, I shall stand in the future, as I have stood in the past, for the relief of the suffering people of my own country. The same voice that said, "Go ye into all the world," also said, "Begin at Jerusalem."

I stood while in Congress against the cancellation of foreign debts and I shall stand in the future against taking out of the taxpayer's pockets money and giving it as a free-will offering to the European powers.

While in Congress I voted and worked for the farming class of my people. My record will show that I never cast one vote against the interest of the working class of our people. I am willing for any citizen to ask any labor organization if Webber Wilson's record wasn't 100 per cent for the working people, and I challenge any living man to deny it. We all realize that the farming business constitutes the basic industry of the country. The farmers who toil from sun up to sun down, from dawn 'till dusk, feed and clothe the world. Many people are preaching the doctrine to country boys and girls to remain on the farm. The way to keep boys and girls on the farms of the country is to make farm life attractive for them, and in order to make it attractive for them, you must first make it profitable for them. The farmers of our country cannot much longer, indeed if any longer, bear the burdens of taxation placed upon them. The government should extend all farm loans, carry these loans beyond this period of depression in order that the farmers might save and salvage what they have left after this period of depression passes. If elected to Congress, I will stand for every measure and fight for every proposal suggested for the betterment of the farming class of my people.

When I was in Congress I voted for the bonus and for every measure proposed that would help those boys who went across the sea, stood between us and danger in the perilous days of yesterday. If elected to Congress, I intend to continue to fight and see that these boys get a square deal in government and to show in every way possible, as a representative of the American people, my deep appreciation of their service and sacrifice.

It is of supreme importance that we should at this time read again the political philosophy of the great Democrats of the past. We should at this time as never before have a rededication to old-fashioned democratic principles. I want it distinctly understood and to reiterate and to declare my belief in the fundamental pronouncements that "all powers of government are derived from the consent of the governed." I believe with all my heart, as did a great American of yesterday, that this is a government "of the people by the people, and for the people," and believing this I want it understood that I believe in the initiative and referendum and recall in government. The people of this country the majority of the people, should have a right to say what their laws shall be. If perchance an unfaithful public servant fosters a law upon the majority of the people without their consent and against their will they should have the inalienable right to have that law referred to them for an expression of their will. Any man who does not believe in majority government is not my kind of democrat.

The people of the country should have a right to recall every public servant from the President of the United States to the Constable of the Beat. In these perilous times when men in high office have plundered and pillaged the people, when they have stolen the very birthright of American children, they should have been recalled forthwith from the high office which they disgraced. People should at all times have the right to take into their hands the lash of authority and drive from public office every man who has been unfaithful to the public trust.

I intend to make a thorough canvass of the district within the next 60 days and discuss more fully the issues now before the people. I will deeply appreciate your support in my race for Congress, and will always endeavor to do as your Congressman to never cause you to regret having reposed your confidence in me.

T. WEBBER WILSON.

Bureaucracy Must Go.

Plodding his route, a Chicago mailman glanced at a letter he held in his hand. It was addressed to "Carl C. Shroshire, 1360 E. Sixty-Second street."

"Oh, my, oh my," muttered the postman, "this is a great mistake. I know Mr. Shroshire, and he lives at 6251 Blackstone ave. I'll take this letter there."

But the mailman didn't know that Mr. Shroshire's sister lived at the address on the letter. Nor was he aware that the missive was from "Dorothy" who lives in Cleveland.

And so "Dorothy's" letter was delivered to the Shroshire residence where it came into the hands of Mrs. Shroshire. When she confronted him with the damaging evidence, Carl became very angry, so Mrs. Shroshire told Judge Sabath.

The mailman was not at hand, so Shroshire hit his wife, she testified. She asks no alimony, but the postal service has gained another enemy.

TAX RECEIPTS FOR STATE OF MISSISSIPPI EXCEED GUESSES

Revenues From Tobacco and Malt Levies Surpass All Estimates

June revenue from Mississippi's new tobacco and malt taxes will exceed the estimated yield by approximately 50 per cent, figures released by the state tax commission revealed.

With but two days remaining before the books for the month are balanced, sale of tobacco and malt tax stamps totaled $142,017.69 for the first 28 days of the month, and $203,266.07 since May 1.

When the new tobacco act was being drafted by the recent legislature it was estimated to produce an average of $100,000 a month. This estimate at the time was considered liberal by tax officials in view of the return from the tax last year which averaged around $30,000 a month.

The new tax was extended to include smoking tobacco as well as cigarettes and cigars, the old law only assessed the latter commodities.

Also strong provisions were inserted to stamp out distribution of tax-free tobacco, foremost of these being transfer of the responsibility for affixing tax stamps from retailers to wholesalers.

The new act went into effect June first.

Members of the state tax commission pointed out that money collected from sale of stamps thus far this month is cash, and will be augmented by revenue from wholesalers who have obtained stamps on consignment by posting bonds. There are approximately 30 large dealers who operate on the consignment basis.

Meanwhile, collections from the two per cent general sales and gross income tax continue to increase, with the total collected during the first 28 days of June reaching $133,264.73. Revenue from this source also is expected to exceed the estimate of $166,000 a month in view of extensions granted all utilities and anticipated revenue from charge sale made during May, which will not be reported until July 15.

The sales tax act became operative May 1, but returns for May were not filed until June 15.

NO SPACE FOR LET IN CAPITOL

Commission Hard Pressed For Room; All Departments Now Are Crowded

Mississippi, more fortunate than most other states in having two capitol buildings available for housing of the various state departments and agencies, is confronted with a space shortage.

The new capitol commission, which replaced the old commission by act of the recent legislature, is having its troubles, and plenty of them.

The difficulty dates back to another act of the legislature which greatly extended the activities of the state tax commission by levying additional assessments, administration of which is charged to the tax department.

Soon after Alf H. Stone took over the chairmanship of the commission and completed reorganization plans he informed the capitol commission that more space would be required properly to administer the duties of his department.

And there just was not any more space available in the new capitol building, where the tax commission is located, without a lot of juggling of offices.

So the commission began juggling and is still so engaged.

A plan was proposed for transfer of the state land department, in charge of Commissioner R. D. Moore, from its present location in the new capitol to the old capitol.

MAN'S BEST FRIEND.

Joseph Bertalin, Downer's Grove, had business in Chicago last week. Judge Miller had sent for him to ask why he hadn't paid the lawyer who represented his wife in her successful divorce action a month ago.

"Your Honor," Bertalin explained, "my best friend is my horse, Ruddy Sir. I race him at Sportman's Park. For two weeks he has been sick and I've had to buy special feed for him. I can't support my sick horse and pay attorney's fees too."

The judge extended the time for payment two weeks. If at that time, the lawyer hasn't been paid, both Joseph and Ruddy Sir may go to alimony row.

Lucky The Warden Has Another Pair.

Warden Hill was absent from the penitentiary at Stateville, Ill., last Sunday. And it was just that day Stanley Burzenak, trusty inmate of the institution, decided he was sick and tired of prison life.

So he donned the warden's best breeches, took the gold star given official by the inmates, and with two dogs belonging to the warden, he sauntered past the guards at the gate, explaining that he was taking the dogs for some exercise.

The dogs have returned.

L. S. U. STADIUM TO BE REBUILT TO SEAT 23 THOUSAND

Louisiana State University, one of the three Southern Conference institutions that enjoyed an increase in football receipts last year, is going to increase its stadium seating capacity by 10,000 and use part of the addition for a students' dormitory.

The enlargement is expected to result in assurance that the annual L. S. U.-Tulane football game will be played in Baton Rouge this fall. Dr. James M. Smith, university president, said last Thursday night, in announcing that bids would be received July 7 on the stadium extension to cost about $200,000.

The present concrete stands on the east and west sides of the playing field are to be added to at the tops and bottoms. The addition will provide living quarters for about 480 men students. When the extension is completed the stadium will have a seating capacity of 23,000.

Besides the football stands enlargements, plans are on foot to renovate and increase the floor space of the cafeteria at a cost of about $30,000.

PAT HARRISON'S TAXI DASH HALTED MISSISSIPPI BREAK

A fast-moving taxicab saved a serious break in the Roosevelt ranks on the third ballot on the presidency last week at Chicago with Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, the hero of the act.

Informed of the decision of the Roosevelt leaders to adjourn after the second ballot the senator hied himself back to his hotel three miles from the stadium for some sleep. He had no sooner arrived than he was told "Mississippi passes."

The Mississippi delegation is split 10½ to 9½ on Roosevelt. This majority of one forces all votes for Roosevelt under the unit rule, Harrison is backing Roosevelt.

The socks came back on in a hurry and wild taxi ride back to the stadium permitted Harrison to get his vote in before conclusion of the roll call and keep Mississippi for Roosevelt. The 9½ votes were friendly to Newton D. Baker, of Ohio.

Glancing around their suite on the Bremen after an excellent dinner Gilbert Miller remarked to his wife: "Well, in spite of everything that has happened in the last two and a half years, we are still living in the lap of luxury."

"Yes," admitted the former Kitty Bache, "but it may be the last lap."—New York Sun.

DEMOCRATS VOTE WET BY FOUR TO ONE

Militant Platform Meets Approval of Delegates—Favored by Roosevelt.

The Democratic party will go to the country this year with a militant platform, sensational in its flat declaration for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, and conspicuous in a never before attained brevity.

Only on the prohibition plank, which carried also a demand for immediate Volstead act modification to legalize beer and other beverages, had received approval—by more than four to one—of the entire convention in its session which ran past midnight, but adoption of the rest today was assured. Contests still were faced on three planks, favoring cash payment of the bonus, bimetallism and protection of depositors in federal reserve banks.

The party's extreme wet declaration came to the convention as majority report through the surprising 35 to 17 vote of the platform committee. It swung through the convention, 934 3-4 to 213 3-4, against the minority report calling for submission of a repeal amendment to the states, without party recommendation.

Besides prohibition repeal, the platform demands "drastic change in economic and governmental policies," and among other things advocates:

A billion dollar cut in federal expenditures with the states making a "zealous effort to achieve a proportionate result," and a balanced budget.

A "competitive tariff for revenue" and repeal of presidential power to change rates.

Flat opposition to cancellation of the war debts.

Federal aid to states for jobless relief when states exhaust of "necessary and useful" public construction.

Unemployment and old age pension insurance under state laws.

Refinancing of farm mortgages at low interest rates, extension of farm cooperatives, control of crop surpluses, and "every constitutional measure" to give the farmer "prices in excess of cost."

Maintenance of a sound currency and an international conference to consider the rehabilitation of silver.

Federal regulation of security and commodity exchanges, interstate utility company rates, and holding companies selling securities in interstate commerce.

Generous treatment of war veterans and their dependents, without mentioning the bonus.

Relief of depositors of suspended banks and prohibiting the use of their money for speculation "to the detriment of local credits"; also restriction of federal reserve facilities for "speculative purposes."

Armament reduction, adherence to the world court with the pending reservations, and non-interference in the internal affairs of other nations.

An adequate army and navy, but one in times of peace which will not burden the people by "an expenditure fast approaching a billion dollars annually."

Philippine independence and ultimate statehood for Porto Rico.

Better protection for labor and the small producer and distributor under the anti-trust laws and "use of the nation's water-power in the public interest."

Speeding up of administration of justice through simplification of legal procedure.

Strengthening of the corrupt practices act and continuous publicity of campaign expenditures.

The 1,400 word platform—shortest in modern political history—condemns in strong terms the Hawley-Smoot tariff, "improper and excessive" use of campaign funds; utterances of high public officials designed to influence stock prices; "extravagance" of the farm board; "usurpation" of power by the state department in passing upon foreign securities floated in this country, and paid lobbyists.

Cucumbers are at the height of their season and in the best possible condition. They used to be eaten when raw, but today we make them into countless dishes. Try these unusual recipes on your family.

Cucumber Puffs

Pare 1 cucumber and cut it into thin pieces, removing as many seeds as possible. Cook ten minutes boiling salted water, then drain and cool. Make a batter of 3-4 cup flour, sifted with ½ teaspoon each of salt and baking powder. Add 3-4 cup of milk, 1 well beaten egg and 1 tablespoon melted butter. Dip the piece of cucumber into the batter and fry in deep fat until delicately browned. Drain on paper, sprinkle with salt and pepper. Serve hot.

Cucumber-Ham Ramikins

Two medium-sized cucumbers parer, cut in small dice and cooked in boiling salted water ten minutes. Drain and mix with one and one-half cup of white sauce and one cup of ground ham; turn into ramikins, dotted with buttered bread crumbs. Bake 15 minutes in oven 400 degrees.

Cucumber Rings

Cut two medium sized cucumbers into rings one inch thick. Pare each slice downward in thin strips producing a striped effect. Boil ten minutes in salted water. Then scoop up as much of the pulp as possible and fill with a stuffing of ½ cup of chopped sautéed mushrooms seasoned with ¼ teaspoon of salt, pepper and paprika to taste, and 1 tablespoon of chopped parsley. Dot the rings with butter and bake a delicate brown in an oven 350 degrees. Serve each cucumber ring on a slice of tomato which has been dipped in French dressing and sprinkled with chopped parsley. This is a very good accompaniment to broiled steak.

Cucumber Pickle

2 gallons sliced cucumbers
2 pounds onions
6 tablespoons salt
Cover cucumbers with water and salt, let stand 3 hours, rinse in cold water and drain.
Heat 3 pints vinegar, 1 tablespoon celery seed, ½ teaspoon curry powder, ½ cup mustard seed, 2 tablespoons tumeric, 4 cups sugar.
Let this come to a boil, add cucumbers and onions. When heated thoroughly, put into jars and seal.

Cucumber Catsup

Pare very thin 6 large cucumbers chop finely, add a scant tablespoon of salt and let drain in a colander for an hour or two. Add a large onion, chopped fine, one teaspoon of white pepper, and one pint of vinegar. Stir thoroughly and seal in glass jars. Let stand a month before using.

Unmistakable Symptom

If products produced are of good quality, unless offered to the buying public in attractive containers and properly packed, only an average price may be expected.

General Recommendations

In the absence of a careful survey of your county the following suggestions are offered:

Whatever may be the prospects for agriculture for the next year, one thing must be kept steadfastly in mind, that is, safe farming. This means raising on the farm the needs of the family and farm animals.

No class of citizens enjoys a greater sense of security than the farmer. He has shelter, fuel, and can have his own food by his own effort.

With a farm program pitched for taking care of farm needs, the remaining problem is what else to do. And suggestions must be predicated on the fact that the farmer has little money to invest in farm enterprises. It is safe to say that farmers generally should utilize for crops in 1932 and 33 fewer acres, and these acres should be those that are most highly productive. Since there will be plenty of labor available for use on the restricted acres, the preparation of the land and the cultivation of the crops should be thorough.

What crops to grow must be determined by the farmer's markets. A good policy to follow is not to jump into the production of any crop on a large scale, however inviting the markets may appear. Better have the eggs in more than one basket. It is also sound practice not to venture far in production of any one crop in which one has not had experience in growing.

Above all, keep up soil improvement practices. Plant your Summer and Winter legumes and increase the soil fertility. Nothing is safer for the farmer, in season and out, than soil fertility. If the cash crops do not pay, the soil improvement crops will put fertility in the land like money in a saving bank against the time when it can be used to profit.
